before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Illustrated Battles of the Napoleonic Age-Volume 4: San Sebastian, Vittoria, the Pyrenees, Bergen op Zoom, the Gurkha War, Lundy's Lane, Toulouse, Ligny, New Orleans and Waterloo:

while I love Leonaur publishing, Illustrated battles of the Napoleonic wars all 4 volumes is a huge disappointment and a big mistake for them. When you advertise an illustrated series of books, readers expect to see quality printed images. If the Illustrations are only in black and white they must be sharp and clear with good contrast and detail even in the shadows. No one I know will buy an Illustrated set of books with such poor illustrations, dark and blurry without good detail. The pen and ink images are better but all the reproductions of paintings look like they were copied on an old Xerox machine. In defense of Leonaur publishing I have purchased 19 of their offerings in books. By offering reprints of books long out of print, difficult to find, and obscure, they have done a great service for readers and collectors, particularly of military subjects. The book covers are superb, printed in beautiful color and the texts are perfect. I believe Leonaur is a small publishing company with a great future If they invest sufficient resources in upgrading the quality of their Illustrations. Until that time they should not try to market books advertised as "Illustrated.

Forty-four battles of the Napoleonic era in words and pictures
Napoleon was one of the most significant figures in world history; a military and administrative genius, statesman and despot, he set Europe ablaze and his influence around the globe resounds to this day. While there is no real glory in warfare, the Napoleonic period, with its marching Imperial armies, plumes bobbing above casques and shakos, and martial figures in uniforms glinting with steel, brass or bronze, is an irresistibly romantic time that fascinates both serious students and casual readers. Great battles were fought across continents, from the heat of the Iberian Peninsula to the snows of the Russian steppe, from the sands of Egypt to the northern woodlands of the Canadian frontier. This world at war, on land and sea, has been chronicled in hundreds of books, from first-hand accounts by soldiers who knew its battles to the works of modern historians who know there is an eager readership. Today we are familiar with photographs of warfare, but in the early nineteenth century the visual documentation of wars was undertaken by a host of talented artists and illustrators, and it is their work that places this unique Leonaur four volume set above the ordinary. Compiled from the writings of well regarded historians and experts on the subject, these accounts were originally part of a multi-volume collection of essays on the battles of the entire 19th century. Each essay benefits from the inclusion of illustrations, diagrams and maps to support and enhance the narrative, many of which will be unfamiliar to modern readers. Battles covered in this final volume include San Sebastian, Vittoria, the Pyrenees, Bergen op Zoom, the Gurkha War, Lundy's Lane, Toulouse, Ligny, New Orleans and Waterloo. Leonaur editions are newly typeset and are not facsimiles; each title is available in softcover and hardback with dustjacket; our hardbacks are cloth bound and feature gold foil lettering on their spines and fabric head and tail bands.
