

(Read free) Interpreting Slavery at Museums and Historic Sites (Interpreting History)

Interpreting Slavery at Museums and Historic Sites (Interpreting History)

From Rowman Littlefield Publishers
ePub | *DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

#697324 in Books 2014-12-23 2014-12-23Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 9.82 x .37 x 7.09l, .0 #File Name: 0759123268148 pages | File size: 55.Mb

From Rowman Littlefield Publishers : Interpreting Slavery at Museums and Historic Sites (Interpreting History) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Interpreting Slavery at Museums and Historic Sites (Interpreting History):

0 of 1 people found the following review helpful. These are so great!By Carr Addisoni will come next time . good product with high quality. EVERYTHING IS GREAT. for myself, It cuts slices as thick or as thin as I want with no crumbs-a nice clean cut. I am completely satisfied with it and am happy to have a slot in my product block that it just fits in.

This book moves the field forward in its collective conversation about the interpretation of slavery-acknowledging the criticism of the past and acting in the present to develop an inclusive interpretation of slavery.

Interpreting Slavery at Museums and Historic Sites is a comprehensive 'how to' manual. It can be extremely useful to any historical or cultural institution serious about improving its ability to present the topic of slavery in ways that acknowledge its foundational significance in the evolution of our nation. (Rex M. Ellis, The National Museum of African American History and Culture at the Smithsonian Institution, associate director for curatorial affairs) Interpreting Slavery at Museums and Historic Sites provides museum professionals with a roadmap to help them engage the topic with greater confidence and vision. It is thoughtful and comprehensive. Well worth the read. (Christy Coleman, president of The American Civil War Center at Historic Tredegar in Richmond, VA) About the Author Kristin L. Gallas has led public history work for the Tracing Center on Histories and Legacies of Slavery since its founding, and also oversaw the design of our workshops for teachers and other professionals in education. She has led the education/interpretation departments at the Montana Historical Society, the USS Constitution Museum, and currently at the Tsongas Industrial History Center; developed programs for the National Trust for Historic Preservation and Shelburne Museum; created interpretative training for Eastern State Penitentiary Historic Site and the Maine State Museum; and consulted with Martha's Vineyard Museum and George Washington's Mount Vernon on exhibit development. James DeWolf Perry is the executive director of the Tracing Center on Histories and Legacies of Slavery, for which he speaks and facilitates discussions about the nation's legacy of slavery and race. He was nominated for an Emmy award for his role as the principal historical consultant for Traces of the Trade: A Story from the Deep North, the 2008 PBS documentary about the legacy of the North's role in slavery and the slave trade, and in which he also appears as a descendant of the leading slave trader in U.S. history.