Robert Shenk : The Naval Institute Guide to Naval Writing, 3rd Edition (Blue and Gold) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Naval Institute Guide to Naval Writing, 3rd Edition (Blue and Gold):

Great resource, tons of info, but may be overkill for some By Mark Bid There is a whole lot of information packed into this book, more info than I need to be honest. Its very organized and easy to follow. The effort put into this reference book is obvious and seems to be kept up to date. If you have to do a lot of naval writing or are new to naval writing this book will be helpful, but it may be more than some people need. If you're only writing evals and normal correspondence you might look for a cheaper option. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. The Naval Institute Guide to Naval Writing By William P. Payne This is an excellent, must have resource for every Navy and Marine Corps officer. It details how to communicate in accurate and professional ways. It leaves no type of written communication to chance. It shows how to write memos, directives, fitreps, instructions, messages and journal articles effectively and correctly. It includes style guides. Especially, this is a very helpful resource when composing evals and fitreps. Junior personnel deserve well informed raters who communicate persuasively and accurately. I highly recommend this book and strongly encourage my peers to purchase it.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy KMJEvery leader should own this, makes writing and phrasing what you really want to say that much easier.

Written by a naval officer who taught English at two service academies, this is the third edition of the premier guide to professional writing for the naval services. The book is widely used by officers, enlisted men and women and civilians in both the Navy and Marine Corps. Shenk provides sound, practical advice on all common naval writing assignments. This third edition adds a new chapter on writing emails and updates the whole book to take account of the way naval writing is done in today's computer age.

About the AuthorRobert Shenk, a widely published professor of English at the University of New Orleans, is a retired captain in the U.S. Naval Reserve. He lives in Mandeville, LA.
